

Not receiving 15 to 20 unsolicited calls a week has improved the quality of home life for our entire family. Now when the phone rings, we know there is a high probability that it is someone that it is a fiend or relative. Before being registered on the Indiana Do-Not-Call list, hearing the telephone ring was a negative experience because it was likely someone wanting us to spend hard earned money on something we didn't want. Now, hearing the phone ring at home is a positive experience. Please don't relax the level of protection offered in our state. If a company that we've done business with in the past wants to sell us something, there are free to mail me a solicitation.
